Message from the CEO

Hello my name is Nallely and I am the CEO of Vend-Inc. I am very proud to be the CEO of this great company. I am very happy to lead this company to great success with the help of the COO Ricardo Miranda. I am hoping that the company continues to work hard to take Vend-Inc to the top. With the help of the entire company staff we will do great things together. My expectations for the company is to have everyone turn in all of their tasks for competitions on time. I am hoping to win a lot of awards this year and really show what Vend-Inc is really about.

Employee of the Month

Vend-Inc.'s employee of the month for January was Evelyn Padilla. She was chosen as the employee of the month for January because she has exceeded the expectations in a positive attitude toward work responsibilities and co-workers. Evelyn is described as the most sweetest, reliable, and strong work ethic person. Not only has she worked hard this month but since the beginning of the year but she does give us his own personal time. She's been going around to other departments and asking if they need help. Evelyn has handled a difficult situation by offering a solution to a problem.

Personal Finance is defined as instruction in money and financial decisions for a person or family including budgeting, retirement planning and investments. The best way to understand your personal financial situation is to calculate how much money you earn each month and where all your money goes. The most important thing about personal finance is that you get to save up, right when you get your first check. It's important to set up a retirement account as early in your work career as possible. Next sets up a household budget and stick to it, when your credit card bills come, pay them off entirely. Vend-Inc will be offering a class in personal finance lead by our own Lizbeth Gonzalez. If anyone is having trouble with personal finances, needs more information about it, or needs help “makingends meet” please talk to Lizbeth Gonzalez from the accounting department to sign up for her personal finance training class.
